

BATTERY MANUFACTURERS & BRAND NAMES

Bill Darden

February 10, 2002

Battery manufacturers, distributors, or large chain stores will often private label their batteries, for example, EverStart for Wal-Mart, DieHard for Sears and DuraLast for AutoZone. The larger chain stores might have batteries with their private label made by several manufacturers depending on the location to reduce shipping costs. Below is a list in alphabetical order of the largest battery manufacturers, joint ventures, or distributors and some of their brand names, trademarks and private labels. Ownership, supply contracts, branding, web addresses and telephone numbers are subject to change. For example, Exide recently purchased GNB and Johnson Controls purchased Optima.

The manufacturer's code number will be on the battery and is only sure way of identifying the manufacturer. Ask the dealer who made the battery. Manufacturers, joint ventures or distributors will sometimes have lines within a trademark of brand, for example, Bronze, Gold, Silver, Premium, Heavy Duty, Commercial, Standard, Plus, Turbo, Calcium, Classic, etc., for differentiating quality, features or warranty periods. They will also contract with other manufacturers to build special purpose batteries.

Trademarks, Brand names and Registrations are owned by their respective companies and are as shown below. Web addresses will often change, so you can use an Internet search tool like <http://www.google.com/> or <http://www.dogpile.com/> to locate the new addresses. For errors and omissions, please email Bill Darden at mailto:bjb\_darden@yahoo.com. Additional information on batteries can be found at <http://www.uuhome.de/william.darden/>.
