

Cancer Root Cause and Cure

There is enough evidence now to say that cancer is a nutritional disease. The root cause of cancer is a result of too many toxins along with a broken communication with the cells due to poor nutrition. Why can this be said? If one removes the toxins, supplies good nutrition and gets the cells back in communication with the rest of the body the person gets well. This has been proven time and again by those who have cleansed their body of toxins and taken in good nutrition. Is there more to it than this? You bet there is.

Why does this work? What are the mechanisms involved? Toxins of this type are sometimes called carcinogens and are known to cause cancer. These are things like DDT, PVC, formaldehyde, Plasticides, Pesticides, food dyes, and preservatives. Poisons from parasitic organisms like fungus, bacteria, worms, are also toxins that can cause cancer. Toxins of this type are anything that the body takes in and holds onto, thinking it can use it. If it passes on through then it is not considered a toxin for these purposes.

Now, when good proper and needed nutrition is scarce and toxins are plentiful (as is the case for food-environment of today) then toxins become part of the cells DNA-RNA chains and nucleus that stores the pattern of the cell. For example, a DDT molecule might look to the cell like a substitute for an amino acid it needs. So, not having the correct amino acid, it uses the DDT instead as part of the cells DNA chains as a substitute. Now, the problem is, this substitute doesn't do the same thing as the original amino acid nutrient.

The cells will try to dispel anything it doesn't want. But if there is nothing good that it needs and that it can take in, then it ends up taking in and using what it can get.

Think what happens when lots of different types of toxins replace good nutrition through out the cell and nucleus. Toxic overload becomes so prevalent that it drives the individual cell into an emergency state in order to survive. So, the pressure is on for the cells to do something to fix itself.

All cells are trying to survive and have a way of self-checking themselves to see if they are complete and in working order. The pattern of each cell is within the DNA strands of the nucleus. Each cell has an awareness of its own state of health. It has a pattern of what should be and a way of checking to see if the current cell meets these standards. When something is found to be dysfunctional, then how can it be fixed?

Cell division is the natural way to fix anything that is drastically wrong with the cell. Normally when a cell gets old it will have dead tissue and toxins that accumulate in the cell and cell division replaces the cell with a new cell.

What happens if there are no good-nutritional building blocks to make a good and working new cell? You guessed it, the new cell ends up with the same thing wrong with it as was the case with the old cell. If the same toxins were used to build it, the DNA chains and nucleus of the new cell ends up with toxic molecules embedded in it. Thus when it does its self check (on its state of health) it comes to the same conclusion; Need to rebuild. Thus, runaway cell division occurs. This "natural rebuilding cell division" process is out of our control in a run-away state. We call it Cancer.

If one takes a calculator with a held down or stuck number “9” key and continues to try and add two numbers; what will be the predicted result? No matter how many times ones tries to get the right answer it will come out wrong. Now, if one un-sticks the held down “9” key, then the calculator starts giving the correct result.

The runaway cell division state will go on and on until the body dies. It has been observed that, if the body’s cells are cleansed of toxins and supplied good nutrition, runaway-cell-division stops and the extra cells are absorbed and go away. In other words, the cells return to there normal function.

So, any technology that cleanses the cells and/or supplies good nutrition to the body is valid cancer reversing technology.

Cleansing of the body’s cells can be accomplished by use of herbs that target the body’s various filters. Colon is cleansed first, then the liver, kidneys, gull bladder, and skin. The liver will clean the blood and the blood will clean the rest of the cells in the body. The colon and other elimination functions are cleaned first so that back-up does not occur. The body’s filters are kept clean by regular cleansing. There are many herbs that target various body parts to rebuild and cleanse. Do your own research and pick what indicates. Any approach you pick will be better than none or not starting.

Good nutrition is food without toxins. Usually they are organically grown. Juice everything. Raw fruits and vegetables have been found to be highly beneficial when juiced. If meats must be taken in, then juice it. Juice all foods taken in. Juiced foods are like a transfusion, they are absorbed into the body without the extra energy of being digested. “Supper foods” should be sought out and used where they indicate as needed. Supplements of vitamins and minerals are needed. Due to the push to produce more bushels per acre, the farm lands have been striped of vital trace minerals over the last 100 years. Thus, supplementation of good needed minerals is vital. Again your own research is needed. Trust yourself, and do what your intuition says. The body will have some level of need or craving, learn to listen to it.

The last factor holding cancer in the body and is part of the continuing cause is “broken communication”. When a person gets cancer they tend to go out of communication with the body part that has the cancer. This produces a ridge (or block) that further blocks communication. When two flows meet each other head-on they produce a ridge. The individual cells are trying to survive and the person who has the cancer is trying to mentally kill or disown these cells. All cells cancer or not are trying to survive in present time. A ridge is formed from your intention survive the body and your counter intention to kill the cancer cells. This ridge can have additional intentions like hate, disgust, not-mine, dead, all-bad, etc. Find out all of the answers to: What is one is doing or “putting there” in present time? Then simply quit doing it.

The cure is to get back into communication with the body part or parts that have cancer. Physically touch the outside of the body where the cancer is with your hand and at the same time spiritually feel the body part by reaching through your body to it. Intend for the cells to take in good nutrition and survive. Intend for the toxins to be expelled from the cells. Flow your love to these cells. Intend for the cell to survive with increased awareness. Do this many times per day, until it becomes a constant standing intention and there is no room for negative thoughts and negative intentions. It is not a matter of belief. It becomes knowingness.

Each cell is alive and has a level of awareness. As this awareness spirals down to apathy/death, due to toxins, it makes worse and worse decisions. Instead of repair, it has no other recourse but to cell divide. Runaway cell division is its way of survival when under heavy attack. The attack comes from the negative toxic intentions of the spiritual being running the body and from the physical toxins that are prevalent in each cell. Negative intentions make toxic chemicals that affect all cells. In this step, one is simply removing the negative spiritual intentions that one is doing to kill off ones body (or part of it). A wise Indian once said; No tree is so stupid as to be at war with one of its branches. So why be at war with some body part.

Stress in the environment can produce negative emotions that can cause chemical toxins to be released that ultimately accumulates in all of the cells of the body that are just as bad as toxins from the outside air or food. Remove stress from your environment by changing physical location, or by changing considerations (postulates). Simply moving to a different place is the simplest way to remove stress. Stress can be a ridge of communication with something or someone in the environment. Some intention is being held in place. Find the intentions and resolve or change it.

Why hasn't the root cause of cancer been discover by now? No real money (so they think) to be made in a nutritional disease. There is only money to be made in treating symptoms with drugs. By treating only symptoms you get a repeat customer when the symptoms come back. If you cure something the customer doesn't come back. The drug industry has the doctors trained to be drug pushers. Most doctors start out with good intentions but, by the time they are educated through the long education system they end up pushing drugs.

The drug industry has a primary vested interested in making money for there stock holders. They have little interest in curing anything and usually target only symptoms. The irresponsible free enterprise system we have today is the root cause. We the people allow products to be made and continually consumed, so that companies can make huge profits with minimal responsibly for the product or its side effects.

Why does radiation therapy and chemo therapy occasionally work? Both of these approaches put more toxins in the body. So why does this occasionally work? It occasionally works when it is successful in making the person sick enough to change eating habits and to get the poisons out. Relapses occur when one goes back to old toxic eating habits.
